How it Works

Celebration or Signature Plate

Choose between a celebration or signature plate. What is the difference between a celebration plate and a signature plate? Both plates are for display, but signature plates allow our guests to sign the rim with a specially made marker. You then heat the plate in a standard oven to set the ink - thus preserving your memories.

Choose a design

All baby plates can be made as boy or girl plates. Twin and Triple plates are available - just pick an appropriate design and specify clearly the sexes and colours you want on the order form.

Fill in the order form

Simply fill in the supplied order form - which you can fax or mail directly to me. If you wish to fill the form out on line - please visit my website.

Ordering policy

Our personalised Celebration Plates are created just for you. Please expect slight colour and design variations as they are all individually hand painted. You will be sent a proof for your order for approval via email before your order goes to production. Please make sure your information has been double checked for correct spelling, names and dates.

Delivery. Allow 21-28 days delivery from the date of order. This may vary depending on the size of the order — remember each plate is individually hand painted. Every effort will be made to meet the agreed upon deadline for delivery. In the event of a delay, the customer will be contacted and apprised of the situation and action taken as a result.

Payment. Payment in full is required in order to commence working on the project. If an order is not satisfactory to the customer, the artist will attempt to correct the design problem. We will not be responsible for customer error, such as misspellings or inaccurate dates provided by customer. Once your order is commenced, the sale is final and non-refundable.
